

Authors

Paola Agnelli is a medical doctor. From 1968 to 1970, she worked in Guinea Conakry. She later specialised in obstetrics and gynaecology at the University of Padua. She has worked as a hospital doctor for about 25 years. From 2004–2008, she dealt with Chinese public health.

Marco Albonico* PhD is a medical doctor with a specialisation in infectious diseases. He works as a general practitioner in Turin. He is also a WHO expert on parasitology and a lecturer at the University of Turin. He is Science Director at the Ivo de Carneri Foundation, which promotes the fight against parasitic diseases in developing countries.

Marianna Bacci Tamburlini has a degree in International and Diplomatic Sciences and a Masters in Development Studies. She has worked on the social and economic aspects of health and has helped evaluate mother-and-child health programmes for Central Eastern Europe.

Sara Barsanti graduated in Economics and Business from the University of Pisa. She has a Masters in Environment Management and Control from Pisa's Scuola Superiore Sant'Anna, where she also attended a specialisation course in Management, Competitiveness and Development. Since 2005, she has worked with the Management and Health Laboratory as a contract researcher.

Guido Benedetti is an odontologist. He has a Masters in Oral Health Development in Disadvantaged Communities and in Developing Countries from the University of Turin.

Maurizio Bonati* is a medical doctor and clinical epidemiologist. He is also head of the Public Health department at the Mario Negri Institute in Milan. A WHO advisor, he promotes initiatives geared towards reducing inequality in health and other fields.

Daniele Brombal is a researcher with a degree in East Asian Languages and Institutions from the Ca' Foscari University of Venice. He won a scholarship from the China Scholarship Council –Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs between 2006 and 2007. He lives in Beijing where he works as a consultant for the Italian Development Cooperation.

* Authors marked with an asterisk are members of the Italian Global Health Watch.

Giancarlo Brunetti is a Nurse Coordinator at the Nursing Management office of Florence's Nuovo San Giovanni di Dio hospital. He is a consultant to Italy's national nursing federation Collegio IPASVI in Florence and director of Obiettivo professione infermieristica magazine. He is also a member of Nursing in movimento, a group that promotes peace and the right to health worldwide.

Dante Carraro is a medical doctor, cardiologist and priest. He is the Director of Doctors with Africa Cuamm, an NGO that has worked on health cooperation projects in Africa for more than 50 years.

Adriano Cattaneo* is a medical doctor and epidemiologist with years of experience working in low-income countries. He is head of the Health Service Research and International Health Unit at the Institute of Child Health IRCCS Burlo Garofolo, Trieste.

Luigi Ciccio is a medical doctor with a specialisation in emergency surgery. He has a Masters in Public Health from London University. He spent more than 10 years in Uganda as a clinical and public health doctor. He is also a visiting lecturer at the Faculty of Health Sciences at the Uganda Martyrs University, Nkozi. He works with magazines Salute e Sviluppo and Health Policy and Development.

Valeria Confalonieri* is a medical doctor. She writes articles about science and health issues regarding poor countries. Since January 2008, she has been head of Scientific Communication at the Ivo de Carneri Foundation.

Sunil Deepak* is a medical doctor and head of Scientific and Medical Support at the Italian Association Amici di Raoul Follereau (AIFO) in Bologna. He is also a consultant to WHO's Disability and Rehabilitation Unit and coordinator for the People's Health Movement in Italy.

Nicoletta Dentico* is a journalist with years of experience in international cooperation. Until a few months ago she was policy advisor to the Drugs for Neglected Diseases initiative (DNDi). She helped launch the MSF Campaign for Access to Essential Medicines in Italy. She also works with OXFAM and other international NGOs.

Patrizia Di Caccamo* is an odontologist. She is a member of the International Cooperation for Dental Health (IOC), the Italian Group for Access to Oral Care (GIA-CO) and the Doctors against Torture association.

Pirous Fateh-Moghadam* is a medical doctor with a specialisation in hygiene and preventive medicine. He has a Second-Level Masters in Applied Epidemiology (PRO-FEA). He works at the Provincial Health Authority (APSS) in Trento.

Carlo Garbagnati is Vice President of Emergency and head of the quarterly review Emergency.

Salvatore Geraci* is a medical doctor. Since 1991 he has been head of the Caritas Health Department in the diocese of Rome. He is also President of the Italian Society of Migration Medicine and a member of the Lazio Regional Work Group on Immigrant Health.

Daniele Giusti is a Comboni missionary and a medical doctor with a specialisation in public health. He started working in Uganda's hospitals in 1978. Since 1998, he has been Executive Secretary of the Uganda Catholic Medical Bureau, which runs the Catholic Church's health network in Uganda. He mainly manages health systems, information systems, and public and private health partnerships, which he helped develop.

Victor Francisco Gomes is a medical doctor and head of the AIFO Programme in Guinea Bissau. He is also a part-time Affiliated Researcher for the Bandim Health Project run by the National Public Health Institute in Guinea Bissau.

Luisella Grandori* is a medical doctor, paediatrician and expert in the prevention of infectious diseases. She has worked at the Public Health Department at both the Modena Local Health Authority (AUSL) and the Emilia-Romagna Regional Health Authority. She is also head of vaccinations at the Associazione Culturale Pediatri, which promotes paediatric work and child health, and coordinator for No grazie, pago io, a group fighting for tighter regulation of relations between health workers and the pharmaceutical industry.

Alejandro Macchia is a medical doctor and cardiologist from Argentina. He also works with Fundacion GESICA, an independent clinical research group.

Gavino Maciocco* is a medical doctor and lecturer at the Department of Public Health at the University of Florence. He worked in Africa for several years. He deals with international health policy and runs Salute e Sviluppo magazine.

Maurizio Marceca* is a medical doctor with a specialisation in hygiene and preventive medicine. He worked in public health agencies at both regional and national level for more than 10 years. He is currently an Associate Professor of Hygiene at the Sapienza University Rome. Since 1991, he has worked on a range of health and care issues regarding migratory flows.

Enrico Materia* is a public health doctor and epidemiologist. He works for the Lazio Public Health Authority and for Italian Development Cooperation where he deals with global health, equity and the production of guidelines for clinical practice, complexity and health.

Eduardo Missoni* is a medical doctor and lecturer in Global Health at the SDA Bocconi School of Management and the Bicocca University in Milan. He has worked as a volunteer in Nicaragua, a UNICEF officer, and an expert for the Directorate General for Development Cooperation at Italy's Ministry of Foreign Affairs (DGCS-MAE). From 2004–2007, he was Secretary General of the World Organisation of the Scout Movement (WOSM).

Simona Monte is a researcher at the Pharmaco-epidemiological Laboratory of the Mario Negri Sud Consortium. She is involved in both clinical research and research on many epidemiologies, ranging from that of the drug, of the population, to that of health and community care, with a special interest in the field of cardiology.

Kostas Moschochoritis, engineer, is currently General Director of Medici Senza Frontiere (MSF) Italy. His professional experience lies in the field of planning and managing emergency and development projects. Since 1995 he has worked with MSF in centres in many countries in Africa, Latin America and South East Asia.

Maurizio Murru*, medical doctor, has worked in various countries in the area of health policy and management since 1978. He has taught in three African Universities. Currently he is working at the Health Action Crises (HAC) Section of the WHO.

Guglielmo Pacileo*, medical doctor, is a researcher in the Centre for Research on Management of Social health Care (CERGAS), lectures in the SDA Bocconi School of Management and, also, in Global Health Policy at the Bicocca University in Milan.

Elena Pariotti, lecturer in the Faculty of Political Science at the University of Padua, where she teaches courses on: “Human Rights”, “General Theory of Law” and “Human Rights and International Justice”.

Enrico Pavignani, medical doctor, has been working in the Third World for almost thirty years, mainly involved in analysis of health systems, drawing up policies, planning, financing and post-war reconstruction. He has worked for a long time in Mozambique, where he now lives, and has studied health systems in Angola, Tanzania, Afghanistan, Sudan, DR Congo, Somalia, Liberia and Palestine.

Giovanni Putoto, medical doctor, has worked in Uganda, Ruanda and Kosovo. He is in charge of training and international projects at the Health Authority of Padua. He is part of the management team of both Doctors with Africa Cuamm and of Medicus Mundi International.

Lorenzo Savioli, medical doctor in tropical medicine, expert in international health and health co-operation. Director of the Department of Control of Neglected Tropical Diseases, World Health Organisation, Geneva (CH).

Mauro Serapioni, sociologist and PhD in Social and Health Sciences (University of Barcellona). He was visiting professor at the Cearà State University and WHO consultant at the Ministry of Health in Brazil. In Italy he has collaborated with the Universities of Bologna, Modena and Reggio Emilia (Italy). Currently he works as researcher at the Centro de Estudos Sociais at the Faculty of Economics of the University of Coimbra (Portugal).

Narayan Kaji Shrestha, educator and activist on human rights, was Fullbright Scholar at the University of Minnesota (USA) and is consultant to the Nepalese Association “Women Acting Together for Change” (WATCH Nepal).

Angelo Stefanini*, medical doctor in public health with wide professional experience in Africa and the Middle East. In 2002 he was WHO representative in the Occupied Palestinian Territories (OPT). He lectures in International Health policy at the University of Bologna (Italy). Since August 2008 he has been on leave of absence and based in Jerusalem, in order to co-ordinate Italian health cooperation in the OPT.

Giorgio Tamburini*, paediatrician, Scientific Director of IRCCS Burlo Garofolo. Expert in public health and health policy in the field of mother and child health in developing countries and in countries in transition.

Fabrizio Tediosi*, senior researcher in CERGAS at Bocconi University Milan and health economist. Expert in: analysis of health systems, economic evaluation of health interventions, aid policies for development and the malaria economy.

Gianni Tognoni*, medical doctor, is Director of the Mario Negri Sud Consortium and General Secretary of the Permanent People's Tribunal.

Masooud Yama, medical doctor, has worked for the United Nations. Directs the Department of Monitoring and Evaluation of the Media in the office of the President of Afghanistan.

Maria Hamlin Zuniga, active in the field of health, has founded various national and regional organisations in Central America and is a founding member of the People's Health Movement.